

Investigation Into Thaw's Recent Movements---Slept Well and in Good Condition.

The court room was crowded when the hearing finally began. A small army of newspaper men was present and a battery of cameras was banked in a corner of the room. The snapping of the shutters as some one was photographed, could be heard distinctly. When Thaw came in there was a great craning of necks. He walked steadily to a seat at the table of his counsel and sat next to Judge Olcott. Thaw wore a gray business suit and a straw hat. A white handkerchief was stuck in the collar of his coat in place of a collar. The young man's supply of linen at the Terhills having become exhausted. His hair was slightly rumpled. He appeared calm and cool, and faced the crowd which stared at him. He talked with his attorney occasionally. Once or twice he smiled in their talks. He has a shifty, nervous eye, and he glanced quickly at time from face to face of those in front of him.

The examination of witnesses while not going deeply into the hidden motive for the crime, was interesting and sensational in that it showed that revelations, which apparently broke the seal of secrecy from a second series.

Upon the occasion of one of his visits to Philadelphia, White stated upon his return about 5 in the morning that he had introduced to Philadelphia the latest novelty in the English set for "the strip bed dinner."

As nearly as could be made out by the rambling description, the dinner was attended by about ten birds and five or six men. Even here White's tendency in favor of exceedingly young birds was noticed as he referred to the "youngsters" as individuals and then they were very young.

IMMORTAL J. N. PASSES AWAY

Eccentric Man Widely Known in Newark and Elsewhere Over Ohio Dies in Toledo Asylum--He Never Paid Fare or Hotel Bills.

J. N. Free, the "Immortal J. N." Forty-nine, traveler, and self-styled philosopher, died in the Toledo State Hospital Wednesday. Known far and wide for his eccentricities, his passing away in an insane asylum seems to have been in keeping with the fitful life he led.

Free was removed to the asylum several months ago. He had spent a short time with a relative in Perry county but he finally became a burden, and request was made that he be taken to the infirmary. About four months ago J. N. paid his last visit to Newark, and as usual called at the Advocate office to "lift the veil" as he had done many times in years gone by.

"Where is your home?" asked the official when he was taken to the infirmary.

The old man's eyes sparkled and he replied bravely, half defiantly: "McCutcheonville, Wyandot county, of course. I always register that way."

Free was then taken back to Upper Sandusky and subsequently was placed in an asylum there.

Although he had traveled all over the country, Free seldom, if ever paid railroad fare or hotel bills. He said he was a philosopher and invariably succeeded in "reasoning" his creditor out of forcing him to pay. The story is told that a hotel keeper, who had fed and housed Free for a week or more, finally asked him to pay. Free declared he would not. After entreaties, arguments and threats upon the part of the hotel keeper had failed, he finally said in despair: "Well I will throw off one-half if that will suit you."

Free replied nonchalantly, "Well, if you throw off one-half, I'll throw off the other half, and we'll call it square."

And the hotel bill is still unpaid.

Hundreds of stories have been told about Free, but it is believed that a very large part of them are mere fiction. It is hard, however, to tell the true from the untrue, for because of his eccentricities, all idiosyncrasies were possible to him.

Free was born in Cumberland county, Pa., May 29, 1828. His parents were well to do and highly intelligent, his father being a minister, exerting a great influence in the early history of this part of Ohio.

The family home is at McCutcheonville, a modest farm house, unpretentious, but comfortable. It is now occupied by Free's sister. The library in the little house is the most interesting room in it. Here, many years ago, the senior Free was reading his Bible when suddenly taken ill. He arose from his chair, laid his book open on the table, and placing his spectacles on the book, he went to his room, and died in a short time. The room has not been changed, and for many years the Bible and spectacles have remained untouched.

When gold was discovered in California, in 1848, the "Immortal J. N." was among those who were stricken by the gold fever, and he went to California where he was very successful. In 1852, when a great fire at Marysville destroyed that city the possessions of J. N. were destroyed. He returned to Ohio and was seized with the fancy that he was the "Demosthenes of America." He was a successful debater and stumpster. He had a striking personality; he was clean shaven and allowed his hair to grow to great length. For years he would announce in the papers that "J. N., the Demosthenes of America" would deliver a lecture in a certain town at a certain date, but he would never appear.

During the Civil war it is said, Free affected to believe that President Lincoln and Jefferson Davis were both right on the war, "viewed from their standpoint." He announced that he would become a "martyr of truth," believing that if he were

REPUBLICANS HOLD CONVENTION

MEETING AT ARMORY TO PUT COUNTY TICKET IN FIELD THURSDAY.

After Selecting Officers and Naming Committees Adjourned Until 1:30 in Afternoon.

Senator W. L. Atwell, chairman of the Central committee, called the Licking County Republican convention to order at the East Main street armory at 10:50 Thursday morning. Deputy Auditor Ray O. Martin acted as secretary and read the call.

Attorney Charles M. Montgomery was called as temporary chairman, and Mr. Roy O. Martin as temporary secretary.

Mr. Montgomery in accepting the position, made a speech, which was a fulsome praise of the Republican party, giving to it the credit of every achievement from the creation of the world to the building of the New York subway.

Mr. Montgomery even gave the Republican party credit for the protection of the "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness" of every American citizen. He said that the Republican party was a party of individualism, and that it had given the freedom of the individual to the American citizen.

In this flight of oratory, Mr. Montgomery evidently forgot the fact there is a God and a Constitution. The One created the world, and the other was adopted long before the organization of the party.

Upon motion of Squire Lee S. Lake, the chair appointed the following committees:

Rules and order of business: Lee S. Lake, Carl Norpell, W. W. Neal, W. H. Cornell, Dr. C. F. Burke.

Credentials: Dr. J. N. Wright, W. A. Lovett, Demas Hoover, Thomas W. Montgomery, E. C. Copper.

Resolutions: George Hamilton, E. S. Randolph, Thomas Evans, M. P. Ashbrook, C. D. Deardurff.

The convention then adjourned until 1:30 in the afternoon.

It was merely hot at 1:30 in the East Main street armory when the Republican County convention was called to order.

The Powers-Miller and the Emerson firms furnished fans and a slight breeze was created, but the delegates sweated during the session.

"Coats off" was the general order, and a kaleidoscopic effect of different colored shirts, at once became evident.

The committee on credentials reported that there were no contests.

The committee on rules, order of business and permanent organization by Chairman Lee S. Lake made its report recommending the selection of Lincoln C. Russell as permanent chairman, and Joseph Pugh as permanent secretary.

Arthur Wythe as chairman of the special committee, appointed to draft resolutions of respect on the death of Gilbert C. Daugherty, made its report, deploring his death as a loss to the Republican party of Ohio, as well as Licking county.

The candidacy of Frank L. Beggs for state food and dairy commissioner, was endorsed by the committee on resolutions.

One paragraph of the committee's report read "We deplore the untimely death of Governor John M. Pattison.

The convention endorsed the National Republican administration, Congressman Smyser and Senator Atwell.

At 2:40 p. m. the following State delegates were chosen: David Dickerson, W. L. Atwell, Dr. C. D. Watkins, John Frampton, Charles M. Johnson, William Legg, William C. Hall George Hamilton, L. C. Russell, M. M. Gillett, J. L. Lewis, Clark B. Hatch, Carl Norpell and Frank Gourley.

The following alternate state delegates were chosen: S. H. Beadle, E. S. Randolph, W. H. Chilcote and W. W. Neal.

Congressional delegates were named as follows: Demas Hoover, J. E. Simpson, M. A. Thompson, C. C. Fraley, I. M. Handley, Grant Sheppard, D. H. Barrick, John Wilson, C. F. Watkins, S. W. Warner, S. H. Beadle, N. C. Sherburne Dr. I. N. Palmer, M. M. Taylor.

Smith L. Redman and T. C. Jarr were nominated for sheriff and commissioner respectively by acclamation.

Samuel Hankinson was nominated for infirmary director and Frank Caine for county clerk. The convention adjourned at 3:30 p. m.

Resemblances in Their Maxims Traced by German Envoy.

IDEALS OF BOTH VERY SIMILAR

Philosophy of the President and That of the Late Chinese Emperor, Famous as a Warrior, Statesman and Artist, Compared by Baron Speck von Sternburg--How Science Is Applied to Work.

Baron Speck von Sternburg, ambassador from Germany to the United States, delivered the principal address the other day at the commencement exercises of the University of Illinois at Urbana, Ill., says a dispatch from that city. In the course of his address he said:

"The spiritual bonds between our two nations, especially during the last thirty years, have been a powerful factor. The increase in the number of men of university training in the United States and in Germany during this period has been pointed out as one of the most remarkable facts of our epoch."

"Higher education has adjusted itself to the needs of our modern life, and the demand for university education is more earnest in both countries than anywhere else and has become far more general. Our people at large have awakened to the one thing needed for national success--the growth of a truly scientific spirit in the conduct of affairs, from the smallest industry to the administration of the state itself."

"In Germany the scientific spirit has penetrated into every branch of business, into every factory. Empirical systems, which have not adapted themselves to the changes, have one by one gone to the wall. It has become a frequent saying that the German university professor is the father of modern German industry. This is true to the word. He has harnessed science to industry and has brought Teuton energy, enterprise and perseverance to its fullest development."

"Emperor Kang Hi of China issued a treatise which his grateful people named the 'Holy Edict.' Kang Hi was the second emperor of the present dynasty, the Chings, which overthrew the corrupt and degenerated Ming. He, like Frederick the Great, was not only a highly successful warrior, but a statesman and artist of great renown."

"Characteristic are the inscriptions of the seals of Kang Hi. They contain two impressions--one the characters 'attend to the people,' the other, 'venerate heaven.' Every country which expects to be prosperous, every individual who wants to perform his duty and find happiness in life, can today do no better than follow the teachings of the 'Holy Edict.' At a glance those who read them and have read or listened to the quotations in the speeches of President Roosevelt must be struck by the extraordinary similarity of the two. Let me give a few examples:

"Kang Hi says: 'Cultivate filial piety and brotherly love, for thereby will be honored social morality.' President Roosevelt says: 'We must in our lives, in our efforts, endeavor to further the cause of brotherhood.'

"Kang Hi says: 'Esteem thrift and economy, for thereby is saved money in business.' President Roosevelt says: 'Only by avoidance of spending money on what is needless or unjustifiable can we legitimately keep our income to the point required to meet our needs that are genuine.'

"Kang Hi says: 'Promote academic institutions, for thereby are established scholarly habits.' President Roosevelt says: 'Of all the work that is done or that can be done for our country the greatest is that of educating the body, the mind and, above all, the character.'

"Kang Hi says: 'Explain laws and ordinances, for thereby are warned the foolish and obstinate.' President Roosevelt says: 'When we make it evident that all men, great and small alike, have to obey the law, we put the safeguard of the law around all men.'

"Kang Hi says: 'Recommend polite speech, for thereby is refined the social atmosphere.' President Roosevelt says: 'Speak softly--the following words you all know.

"Kang Hi says: 'Develop legitimate business, for thereby the people's desire is rendered pacific.' President Roosevelt says: 'Our laws should be so drawn as to protect and encourage corporations which do their honest duty by the public.'

"Kang Hi says: 'Keep disciplined the forces, for thereby are prevented thefts and robberies.' President Roosevelt says: 'A good navy is not provocative of war; it is the surest guarantee of peace.'

"Kang Hi says: 'Settle enmities and discussions, for thereby you protect human lives.' President Roosevelt says: 'Every thinking man rejoices when by mediation or arbitration it proves possible to settle troubles in time to avert suffering.'

"The style of Kang Hi's maxims shows the conventional character of the orthodox Confucianist and naturally may appear pedantic to you. But I think you will agree that it is a remarkable document which reveals the inmost thought of a great Chinese ruler and runs closely on the lines of thought of President Roosevelt."

TO ROOT OUT ANARCHY

Island Prison Suggested For "Reds" of the World.

SCHEME OF DR. WALTER KEMPSTER

International Movement Toward Banishment and Seclusion Proposed. Appointment of a Commission Asked For--All Countries to Share Expense of Guarding the Assembled Anarchists.

United and immediate action to protect all nations from anarchists and to rid all governments of their attacks should be taken as the direct result of the recent bomb throwing in Madrid is the belief of Dr. Walter Kempster of Milwaukee, who thinks the adoption of some practical plan to root out anarchy in the United States and in European countries is one of the most urgent needs of the present time, says a special dispatch from Milwaukee to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Dr. Kempster has given much thought to the subject, and he has a plan which he believes would prove entirely practicable and effective.

According to this plan, the secretary of state of the United States should immediately demand the appointment of a commission to meet with commissioners to be appointed by other nations, such as England, France and Germany. The co-operation of all nations whose safety is threatened by the presence of anarchists should be asked, and at a meeting of the international commission steps should be taken for the purchase of an island to which all anarchists from all nations should be banished. This island, Dr. Kempster believes, should be located in a healthy, pleasant location, with conditions favorable to the support of human life. An international guard should be maintained to see that the anarchists thus banished do not escape, do not send out any of their anarchistic ideas to the outside world and do not receive help from the outside.

The plan is substantially the same as the one which the Wisconsin commandery of the Loyal Legion, at the suggestion of Dr. Kempster, recommended for adoption at the time of President McKinley's assassination. Although nothing was said publicly about the plan, it was submitted to other commanderies of the Loyal Legion, and almost without exception they endorsed it and sent petitions to congress asking that the necessary action for the calling of such an international commission be taken. The plan was submitted to Senator Spooner and is said to have received his approval.

"This fiendish outbreak in Madrid ought to be taken by people the world over as a call to action," says Dr. Kempster. "When President McKinley was assassinated resolutions by the hundreds were passed. Every one passed resolutions against the anarchists, and feeling was at fever heat. Within two weeks after his death the whole thing was forgotten. At that time I suggested the plan of having an international island, to which anarchists should be banished, to our Loyal Legion. Other members agreed with me that the plan was entirely feasible and would provide a practical solution of the problem confronting us. We sent the plan to other commanderies, and a large number of them joined us in sending a petition to congress, submitting the plan and asking action on it. Previously I had submitted the plan to Senator Spooner, and he had given it his endorsement."

"All those petitions were shelved. The feeling aroused against the anarchists died out in a few days, but anarchy has been going on, growing bolder and bolder. A few days ago we were shocked at the bomb throwing in Spain, and immediately following it two of the leading anarchists in this country came into Milwaukee and preached their dangerous doctrines absolutely undisturbed. The anarchists are allowed to go on plotting murder--for anarchists are murderers per se--while we stand silently by."

"We have reasonable evidence that there is an anarchistic plot against President Roosevelt. We know there was one against President McKinley, who was shot down by a disciple of this same Emma Goldman who comes to Milwaukee openly and boldly, yet we take no steps to check the growing danger."

"When the police cleaned out that hotbed of anarchy in New Jersey, what was done? The members of the band were scattered and sent out to spread their dangerous doctrine in other parts of the country. Some of them came to Wisconsin, and some went to other states. Unless something is done to check the growth of anarchy we shall see a return to lynch law. It would not have taken much to have inflamed citizens with the lynching spirit at the time of President McKinley's assassination."

"The adoption of some practical plan, then, is necessary. Unfortunately we do not have for anarchy. There can be no possible objection, however, to putting them all on an island together and let them work out their own salvation or destruction. I am convinced that the plan is a practical one. All it needs is some one to give it the start."

The Signs of Heart Trouble

You can Surely Secure Heart Health and Strength through Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Heart weakness which can be dealt with at all is nerve weakness. Just as your hand trembles when its nerves are weak, when your heart nerves are weak your heart falters and fails. Other signs are shortness of breath after slight exercise; fainting spells; pain or tenderness about the heart caused by irregular heart action; choking sense, as if the heart was in the throat; uneasy sensation in the chest, showing that the heart is not working right; on one side, usually the left side, but frequently the right, a cold, numb, tingling, painful feeling, as if one was being slowly crushed. That is to say, the heart is not natural and strong. There is no permanent strength to its nerves. Can you think of one who does? Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring back the strength to the heart nerves and thus restore to you the natural strength of your heart. The strength that gives is natural and permanent. It is just the same strength as Nature gives to those who are well. Dr. Shoop's Restorative (Tablets or Liquid) creates strength which extends over the whole inside nerve system, thus creating the cause of the trouble as well as the result. Sold by

WORST STORM OF YEARS.

Ravenna, O., June 28.—Wednesday afternoon about 4:30 A. t. w. experienced the worst storm of its kind in the history of the township. Almost without warning a furious hailstorm began and left a scene of desolation in its wake. Windows were shattered by the large stones and crops of all kinds were cut to pieces or beaten into the ground. Wheat fields were ruined and garden crops of all kinds suffered severely. The green apples were cut from the trees and the trees themselves almost defoliated. When the storm was over the ground was covered with a layer of ice and hailstones from 4 to 5 inches in circumference were plentiful.

Western railroads decided to make a rate for farmhands of one-third the usual fare to points in Iowa and Kansas from June 29 to July 10, inclusive.

To Spend That $25,000.

CUT DOWN DEAD TREES IN NEWARK

TRIM THE LIVE ONES AND PLANT NEW TREES WHERE THEY ARE NEEDED.

Let Some Public Spirited Citizen Donate Park to City or at Least Make a Loan.

Why not beautify your home surroundings and at the same time help to improve Newark by cutting down the dead trees on your premises, or on the street in front of your premises?

You should not only cut down dead trees, but you should also cut out the dead branches in live trees.

When you trim trees, please remember not to cut large branches back to within three or four feet of the trunk—let a tree take or keep its natural shape as nearly as possible. When trees are trimmed the wounds should be covered with coal tar to exclude rot.

The ideal street tree should have one main stem or trunk, to which all the branches are subordinated.

It is true that many deciduous trees do not naturally grow in this way. The reason for trees trained to this habit being particularly adapted to street planting is obvious. A tree like a silver maple or an American elm, which generally shows a tendency to fork away into a number of equally balanced stems, ten to fifteen feet from the base, is extremely liable to have some of those large main limbs blown down or smashed in violent summer storms. A little observation will show any one, in any locality, that the latter kind of forked trees always suffer more or less from injury. It is an easy matter to train any tree to one main stem, by giving it a little pruning attention from time to time, in its youthful days, and it is surprising how little attention it requires to accomplish this result, with an occasional judicious pruning given to trees in a young state and maintained for a few years, until their habits are formed.

A few suggestions as to how trees should be planted might not be out of place:

If the soil is good, no preparation for planting is necessary, other than the loosening up of the ground for each tree for a space of from seven to ten feet in diameter, and from two to three feet in depth. When the soil is poor not less than ten yards of good soil should be substituted for an equal amount of poor soil excavated from the hole. The same loosening up of the ground should be made.

If planting is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well, for on this depends the well being of the tree.

It is safe to say, if you have $20 to spend on planting a tree let $19.50 be spent on the preparation of the ground to receive it. It should be borne in mind that the same conditions, which will produce a good bill of corn, will grow trees well and nothing else will serve.

In looking over the city of Newark it has been found that the trees are entirely too close; 65 feet apart is given as the minimum distance that trees should be planted by so good an authority as J. A. Pettigrew, superintendent of Boston parks. When trees are planted too close they cannot develop their full beauty.

Many of the trees on our streets need trimming up so that a carriage may pass underneath. Indeed, there are quite a few instances of branches being allowed to droop so low that they interfere with pedestrians.

See that your boy does not cut or hack trees. Of course, you wouldn't think of hitching your horse to a tree because it might gnaw the bark. The writer has seen hitching rings driven into trees.

October 16 has been designated by the governor of Pennsylvania as fall Arbor Day and the officials of public institutions advised particular attention to the planting of trees. In general the fall promises better results in planting young trees than the spring, and with the proper care it becomes an object lesson to the young to observe the breaking forth into life of the bare pole that was set out before winter closed in. It was suggested also that fall Arbor Day should be devoted to exercises and instruction demonstrating the importance of forestry work.

There is no state in the Union that would not derive benefit in the future from the instruction imparted in the public schools on two Arbor Days in each year.

It is a question of vast importance to the permanent welfare of the country, this leading of the young mind back again from the city to the country by impressing upon it the value of a knowledge of arboriculture and horticulture, and to this a repetition of Arbor Day in the fall would lend itself, and tend to fasten the subject more permanently in the youthful mind. Arbor Day is nofad, and its value will impress itself on the people year by year.

Libraries, hospitals, bridges and play grounds are replacing statues as memorials to individuals, and the change is wholesome. Statues and tablets are often excellent, but clean streets, pure air, open parks—all things that contribute to better moral and physical life, are better.

Let some public spirited citizen of Newark donate a park to the city, or at least allow some land to be used for park purposes.

BEN DICKERSON GOES TO ANNEX

COSHOCTON PRISONER IN NEWARK THURSDAY ON HIS WAY TO PENITENTIARY.

Officer Pat Carroll was at Pan Handle Station to See Officers and Prisoner.

Thursday, June 28, 1906, is the first anniversary of one of the most ghastly tragedies ever known in Coshocton county. It was shortly before the noon hour and on a day just like this, bright warm and sunny that Mrs. Kate Hughes left her home to go down to a spring in a little dell to get water for dinner. Her long absence frightened the children and they went through the woods calling her. The neighborhood was quickly aroused and Molly Ogle, her niece, found the body wedged between the forks of a sapling. It was just at this spring that Thomas McCoy that same morning a year ago found the sunbonnet in a suspicious position, and took a drink out of the bucket of cool water he found there.

The public knows the story too well for repetition. Twelve men declared Ben Dickerson to be the man who committed the murder, and he has been sentenced to die in the electric chair on Tuesday, September 18.

Wednesday, Mrs. Ben Dickerson, with her little six year old daughter, went to Coshocton, and after a brief visit with her attorneys, she and the child went to the county jail to spend a half hour with the husband and father—a farewell visit as Dickerson was taken to the penitentiary Thursday morning, passing through Newark on the 7:10 train. He was in charge of the sheriff and deputy sheriff of Coshocton county, and the three were the only occupants of the car.

Officer Pat Carroll was the only one in Newark who was possessed of the information that Dickerson would be taken to the penitentiary Thursday morning. He was at the Pan Handle depot when the train pulled in, and entered the car and spoke to the officers and the prisoner. Pan Handle Detective Smith joined the officers at this point.

BLAME THROWN ON THE HOUSE

Senator Proctor Reports Deadlock on the Meat-Inspection Bill.

REFUSED ANY COMPROMISE

Argument Reached by the Conference on the Pure Food Measure—Lock Canal Accepted by Both Branches. Senator Bailey Replies to Magazine Attack.

Washington, June 28.—The pure food bill was agreed upon by the conferees for the senate and house and was reported to the senate.

The house bill was taken as a basis of agreement, and into this were grafted many of the important sections of the senate measure which had been given great attention by Senators McCumber and Heyburn, extending over three sessions of congress. With the exception of two sections, the bills were not materially different. Two provisions of the house bill were eliminated entirely. They were the sections which authorized the secretary of agriculture to fix the standards of the various articles of food as to the wholesomeness or unwholesomeness of the various preservatives, and which would compel the person selling drugs or articles of food to furnish samples of such product for the purposes of analysis. The bill as agreed upon makes it a misdemeanor for any person to manufacture, sell or offer for sale any article of food, drugs, medicines or liquors which is adulterated or misbranded or which contains any poisonous or deleterious substance. It prescribes for each offense a fine not to exceed $500, one year's imprisonment or both, within the discretion of the court, and for each subsequent offense a fine of not less than $1,000, or one year's imprisonment.

The day's business of the senate included an announcement by Senator Proctor, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture, of a deadlock in conference on the meat inspection provision of the agricultural appropriation bill; a reply by Senator Bailey to the recent attack upon him in the Cosmopolitan magazine; the passage of the naturalization bill; the continuance of Senator LaFollette's effort to pass his bill limiting the hours of service on railroad trains; the acceptance of an almost complete report on the sundry civil appropriation bill and a speech by Senator Warren in support of his resolution relative to the live stock industry.

In his statement concerning the meat inspection Mr. Proctor said that the house conferees had refused all efforts at compromise and had refused to join in a report. The announcement was generally received as indicating a deadlock, but hope was expressed that cooler counsel might prevail.

Sensor Bailey denied all the allegations of the Cosmopolitan magazine article attacking himself, and holding W. R. Hearst responsible for the attack, said that in all the six political campaigns made by himself he had not spent as much money as Mr. Hearst had spent in one ward in his recent race for mayor in New York.

House Proceedings.

Washington, June 28.—The general deficiency bill, the last of the big money measures, passed the house with few changes in the text of the bill. Several items were inserted due to late information of deficiencies in the departments, the net increase being about $600,000 over the bill as reported from the committee on appropriations. Among the important actions of the house were the passage of the senate bill providing for a lock type of canal and the adoption of the item in the general deficiency bill ratifying and legalizing the duties collected during President McKinley's term from imports from the Philippines. It looked as if the Democrats would line up solidly against the amendment, which was put back in the bill under a rule, but under the lead of Mr. James, Kentucky, the opposition melted away and few Democratic votes were cast against it on its final passage.

Saloons.

Raided by the Kansas Officials. Property Seized.

Kansas City, Mo., June 28.—The anti-saloon crusade was given a new impetus in Kansas City, Kansas, when raids were authorized on forty saloons, joints, as they are called, running in violation of the state prohibition law. Many of the joint proprietors hurriedly closed their places and some moved or made preparations to move their fixtures. Since the inauguration of the present crusade, which was started by Governor Hoch, ten saloons have been raided. The liquors and costly fixtures from three of these places valued at perhaps $5,000 were destroyed by Sheriff Connell on an order from Judge Holt, of the court of common pleas.

Jere Dunn Dead.

Elizabeth, N. J., June 28.—Jere Dunn, a widely known sporting man, died here of cancer. Some 20 years ago he achieved considerable notoriety by killing Jim Elliott in Chicago, at the time when Elliott, who was a noted pugilist of that day, was matched to fight John L. Sullivan. Dunn was acquitted on plea of self-defense.

so on, it becomes a most complicated matter. Then there is the initial problem of which language it has been keyed in, to be solved by the man that attempts to open the safe. Furthermore, instead of letters the inventor, one Neumat Tobias, has employed four sets of numerals. Assuming that the lock has been set to a figure in the number of 3,030,303,030,303,030, it would take any one who undertook to unlock the safe 96,090,278 years 269 days and 30 minutes and 30 seconds working at the rate of 60 numbers a minute to arrive at the proper combination. During this time he would have no time for food or sleep.—Chicago Tribune.

SOME INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS ON THAW-WHITE NEW YORK TRAGEDY

New York, June 28.—Harry Thaw, whose money was his curse, Evelyn Nesbit, whose face was her fortune, and Stanford White, whose artistic temperament included a penchant for the chorus—such is the triangle within which the dark circle of New York's startling tragedy is circumscribed. The lives of the first two are notorious with escapades, while that of the murdered White was illustrious with achievements. The story of their interwoven careers reads like a piece of fiction from the pen of Balzac, epitomizing the romance and the sensationalism of gilded Bohemia.

Thaw has been for years one of the wildest "spenders" in this nation of spendthrift millionaires' sons. His reputation as a wastrel is international; his dinners to actresses were masterpieces of extravagance. He is a typical "good fellow," seeking his pleasures but harming no one except through his ungovernable recklessness. Thaw is not bad enough to have enemies, and his infatuation for the girl whom he married in the face of his relatives' united clamor can be set down as one of the doubtful things to his credit.

The $40,000,000 to which he is one of the heirs were accumulated by William Thaw of Pittsburgh, a deceased railroad and steamship magnate. Thaw Sr. was vice president and director of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Harry's conduct as a young man—he is now 33—when a student at Wooster, Ohio, and Western University of Pennsylvania did not appeal to his father, who would him only a yearly allowance of $2,500. But, though he was the black sheep of the family, he was also his mother's favorite son, and she gave him enough money to make his share equal to those of the other children. So after his graduation Harry began to wander joyously over the world with an annual income of $80,000.

The faster Thaw could get rid of his money the more he enjoyed life. A practice of tipping waiters with a $5 bill, no matter how small the check, was one of his minor indulgences. The checks were never insignificant, however; even when alone and without appetite he would order a $50 dinner merely to keep from being bored. The construction of a menu was one of Harry's few intellectual pursuits, and he devoted himself to it diligently. In gastronomic philosophy he was a perfect Aristotle.

Harry's blue-ribbon dinner was given in Paris five years ago; Paris has not yet ceased talking about it. The bill came to $50,000, and Harry signed a check for it with the nonchalance that characterized him when he began to pour bullets into the defenseless Stanford White. Twenty-five of the most beautiful actresses and demi-mondaines of Paris were his guests. Sousa's Band played the music for a stipend of $1,500.

But Harry could be rough-and-ready as well as luxurious. He has subsidized two cabbies to race down Broadway when the street was crowded with traffic. He has broken up a play by hurling champagne bottles at a soubrette whose figure he did not admire. He has stood upon a table in a fashionable after-theatre cafe in New York and flung away fistfuls of coin to see the waiters scramble. He has jumped astride a cab horse, upon finding the driver asleep, and displayed his contempt to the admiring throng.

Harry was never a tuft-hunter nor a toady to titles. His sister, the Countess of Yarmouth, snubbed him and his wife after their surreptitious marriage, but Harry carried off the insult as a badge of honor. When the Earl of Yarmouth was about to be married to Miss Thaw, upon the very day of the wedding, in fact, he balked and refused to go through with the ceremony until given a cold million American dollars. Harry wanted to kick him downstairs in good, honest American fashion, and would have done it if his elder brother, Joseph, had not weakened and signed the agreement. Thus Harry Thaw earned another one of the few white marks that decorate his history.

So much for the husband. Now for the woman in the case—Florence Evelyn Nesbit, 21 years old, perfect in feature and figure, born with the sweet, weak, beautiful face that has been the flame to the human moth ever since Helen enchanted Paris and destroyed Troy. Gibson has drawn her profile in the symbolical sketch called "The Eternal Question."

Evelyn Nesbit's early home, like Thaw's, was in Pittsburgh. She is the daughter of Winfield Scott Nesbit, a lawyer who died leaving the widow only a pittance. At the age of 14 Evelyn began to work for her living in a photographic studio in Philadelphia. Her employer took a picture of her to hang in an exhibition, and Evelyn woke, on the next morning to find herself a famous beauty. Artists began to beg her to pose for them, and within a few months she was earning a neat income in New York as a model. She sat only for the face and bust, however, never for the "full-length." Pictures of her were circulated broadcast, but never of a kind there for a crime committed more than a year previously.

Constable Podley traveled from Ft. Chipewyan to Ft. Saskatchewan in the depth of winter with a raving lunatic strapped to a dog sled and the hardship and anxiety of the journey made him insane.

Constable Conradi galloped from safety to the help of a settler and his family, in deadly peril from a tremendous prairie fire, and fought it, singed and almost suffocated, until the greater part of his clothing was burned off him.

Behind these bald and brief statements of official facts loom up the outlines of stories of endurance and unostentatious heroism. At the time the report was issued the force consisted of 54 officers, 650 non-commissioned men, and 109 interpreters and guides and artesans, making a total force of 813. In the year the police brought 4,627 offenders before the courts, and of these only 822 were dismissed. These cases cover a great variety of crime, from murder to cattle stealing.

Arrangements have been made with the new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan for continuing the force, each province paying $75,000 yearly toward its maintenance.

age Passes Under Contract of
One Big Company.

George Warrington of Cincinnati, arrived Wednesday from Philadelphia, where he closed up the deal by which a vast extent of electric railway mileage in Ohio and Indiana passes under control of one company, to be operated by the Indiana, Columbus and Eastern Traction company.

It includes the following lines: The Dayton, Springfield and Urbana, the Urbana, Bellefontaine and Northern, the Columbus, Leavenworth and Springfield, the Columbus and Grove City and Southwestern, the Columbus, Buckeye Lake and Newark, the Columbus, Newark and Zanesville, the Columbus and Lake Michigan, the Dayton and Western, the Dayton and Northern, the Dayton and Muncie, the Dayton and Western, and the Zanesville Light and Power company.

The total is 249 miles. The Indiana, Columbus and Western property has been mortgaged for $18,250,000, in two mortgages of $12,000,000 and $6,250,000 each, to take up the stock of the old companies, and these will be filed at once in the 18 counties through which the lines run.

The deed which transfers the local interurban road, together with others, to the Indianapolis, Columbus and Eastern, was filed in Columbus Wednesday.

The lines and property belonging to the Columbus and Buckeye Lake road, were transferred to the Columbus, Newark and Zanesville and from the latter to the Indiana, Columbus and Eastern Traction company, the transfer being effective June 15, and to run during the life of the franchises of the two roads. According to the provisions of the contract $500 a year must be allowed for maintenance of offices. July 1, $15,000 and $30,000 annually, thereafter, must be paid, as rental.

A. E. and Alice H. Locke of Lexington, Mass., convey to the Indiana, Columbus and Eastern company for $1 and other consideration, the roads known as the Dayton, Springfield and Urbana and the Urbana, Bellefontaine and Northern, the Columbus, London and Springfield, and the Columbus, Grove City and Southwestern. The property is subjected to mortgages as follows: $75,000 on the Dayton, Springfield and Urbana; $1,000,500 on the Columbus, London and Springfield; $250,000 on the Columbus, Grove City and Southwestern, and $1,243,000 on the Columbus, Newark and Zanesville.

Two mortgages were filed, one by the Indiana, Columbus and Eastern Co. to the Pennsylvania company for insurance on land, amounting to $12,000,000 in 20-year 5 per cent bonds, dated May 1, 1906. The other mortgage is for the Columbus, Newark and Zanesville to the Girard Trust company for $6,250,000 on the same terms as the other mortgage.

IN FAMILY TOMB

Pug Dog is Incased in Silver-Mounted Coffin and Buried in a Mausoleum.

Boodle, a pug dog 8 years, 7 1-2 months old, died yesterday morning in the "family" residence 1219 Coliseum street, of heart disease, and in the afternoon the body incased in a handsome silver-mounted coffin, was laid to rest in the "family" tomb in Metairie cemetery the most fashionable in the city, says the New Orleans correspondent of the Baltimore Sun.

The dog was the property of Mrs. W. T. Crofts, wife of the last assistant general superintendent of the sewerage and water board. Prominent physicians were called when the dog sickened, but to no avail. Mrs. Crofts sent across the street to an undertaker company and procured a baby coffin. A hearse and carriage were hired from the same establishment, and while Mrs. Crofts, as undertaker, prepared the body for interment, the other details of the funeral were perfected.

Crofts, Mrs. Crofts, her son, Dudley Boazman, and the young man's friend, Sydney Roberts, were the mourners. They rode in the carriage to Metairie cemetery, where the Crofts family tomb had been opened. There, without ceremony, the remains of Boodle were laid to rest, and the grief-stricken attendants turned homeward.

Mrs. Crofts was hysterical when she told of Boodle's last moments. "I did not weep," said Mrs. Crofts. "Because I am not of that kind. When my son died, I could not weep for four days, and I have not wept for Boodle. My son loved me and Boodle loved me. Boodle had been my protector for more than eight years, and if I had $1,000,000 to spend on the funeral she would have received only what was her due."

"I reared Boodle from an infant, and loved her. When I had the family tomb built in Metairie cemetery I had six places made—one each for my mother and son who are dead, one each for Mr. Crofts and myself, one for my living son and one for his wife should he marry. The vault was reserved for such occasions, and into it we placed Boodle's remains."

NEWARK MAN IS ASKED TO CONTINUE AS MEMBER OF PEN BOARD OF MANAGERS.

Governor Indicates to Crayton That Recent Election of Russell Will Not Stand.

Columbus, June 28.—Edward W. Crayton, of Newark, recently appointed a member of the board of penitentiary managers by Governor Pattison had a conference with Governor Harris that lasted some time.

It is understood that Governor Harris indicated to Mr. Crayton that the recent election of Ohio W. Russell as warden of the Ohio penitentiary would not be permitted to stand, but he wanted Mr. Crayton to continue as a member of the board. The action of the board in reorganizing the institution and putting Russell in as warden over Gould is to be undone through the refusal of the board to approve the minutes of the meeting at which that action was taken.

This statement is made upon the very best authority. Warden Gould has been about the governor's office the entire day, and is there in his own behalf.

BREAKS NECK FALLING 30 FEET

SAMUEL GEORGE OF NASHPORT IS VICTIM OF ACCIDENT AT IRVILLE.

Slipped Off Barn Where He Was at Work—His Death Was Instantaneous.

The rain Wednesday afternoon brought death to Samuel George, aged 70 years, of Nashport, for while at work on the roof of a new barn at Irville about 5 o'clock in the evening he slipped on wet lumber and fell to the ground, breaking his neck. The fall was almost 30 feet and death was almost instantaneous.

Mr. George was a well-known resident. He has been a carpenter at Nashport and vicinity for many years. Together with John Van Horn the victim has been working on a new barn being built for August Ickhorn at Irville during the past three weeks. The big structure, built as a bank barn, has all been enclosed and is ready for the roof.

On one side of the roof was Van Horn and on the other side was George. Neither could see the other. Arthur Raughman, brother-in-law of the owner of the barn, was the only one to see George fall. Raughman hurried to the aged carpenter, but life had flown.

Dr. W. S. Drake of Irville was called to the scene. Mr. George was pronounced dead and upon examination it was found that his neck had been fractured. The body was sent to Nashport, his home on a C. & N. and Z. traction car. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

The deceased was highly respected. For several years he had been treasurer of Durigan lodge I. O. O. F. of Nashport. He was a member of the Nashport M. E. church, from which the funeral will probably be held. Besides an aged wife there are left to mourn one daughter, Miss Lucy, and one son, Frank George.

BIG MACHINE OVERTURNS KILLING F. E. STONEMAN OF COLUMBUS

Automobile Accident Near Alton Five Miles West of Capital City

COMPANIONS BADLY INJURED

Ice Men File Motion--Quake at Cleveland--One In Every 400
Insane--Ohio News.

Columbus, O., June 28.—Frank E. Stoneman, a local capitalist, was instantly killed and George W. Davidson and brother, J. F. Davidson were injured severely in an automobile accident.

The accident happened near Alton, five miles west of the city. The car was moving at a very rapid rate when, in passing over a number of chuch holes, it swerved out of its course, and a front wheel dropped over the embankment at the right. In trying to regain the center of the roadway, Mr. Stoneman, who operated the machine, threw the weight of the vehicle upon the left wheels, causing the tires to burst and the car to overturn. The occupants were thrown out, Stoneman's skull being fractured.

After rolling completely over the three men, the machine alighted on its four wheels at the left side of the road. The auto steering wheel struck Mr. Stoneman's head as the machine passed over him. He sustained a fractured skull and hemorrhages of the head and lungs.

Ice Men File Motion.

Toledo, O., June 28.—Attorneys for Messrs. Baird and Lemon, two of the ice men now in jail for unlawful combination, filed a motion in court asking for a reduction of sentence on the ground that their clients cannot pay the $5,000 fine assessed against each of them, that their business is suffering because of their incarceration, and that the company of which they are managers agrees to reduce the price of ice from $10 to $7.20 a ton, thereby meeting the requirements of the court to make restitution to their patrons. Attorneys for the convicted ice men will await the outcome of the motion before taking action. The court refused to release the two men on bond pending hearing on the motion.

Banks Must Pay.

Troy, O., June 28.—In the case brought by the prosecuting attorney against the Troy National and First National banks of this city, and the Citizens' National and Piqua National banks of Piqua for interest on the money deposited in these banks by County Treasurer Jesse Burkett, Judge J. I. Alford, of Greenville, overruled the demurrer to the petition and held that these funds deposited by the treasurer were trust funds, and that the banks knew them to be trust funds, and that the banks are liable for any interest they receive on these deposits.

Quake at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 28.—A shock felt here Wednesday evening is pronounced by Cleveland scientists to have been an earthquake. It is reported to have shaken the southern shore of Lake Erie for a distance of 100 miles, the eastern limit being Painesville and the western limit Marblehead. No damage has been reported, though in some places the shock was sufficient to slam doors and rattle windows. Local scientists explain that the seat of the seismic disturbance was probably beneath Lake Erie.

Burglars Loot Hospital.

Dayton, O., June 28.—Burglars forced an entrance into the Emergency hospital connected with the county infirmary and bound and gagged Peter Halpin, the custodian, and then looted the place. Watches, jewelry and money belonging principally to Halpin and aggregating in value $125 were stolen.

Phelps, catcher, now playing with the Pittsburgh National league club, has been awarded to the Boston American league team, according to a voluminous decision handed down by Chairman Hermann, of the national baseball commission. The Cincinnati club, which disposed of the player to Boston for $1,500, will be required to pay the player $750, his half of the purchase money.

Bloody Work of Cleveland.

Buffalo, June 28.—Fred Haas, of Cleveland, shot and killed his wife, Maud Haas, probably fatally wounded, Mrs. Ida McElroy, and then shot himself through the head, dying a few moments later. Mrs. Haas' refusal to supply her husband with money is said to have been the cause of the murder. The couple was married in Cleveland four years ago.

Gasoline Exploded.

Cincinnati, O., June 28.—Mrs. Andrew Wetzel, wife of a prominent restaurant man, died at the City hospital from the effects of a gasoline explosion. She was attempting to clean some portieres, and had partly filled a bathtub with the gasoline. It was ignited from a gas jet and reduced the apartments to wreckage.

DR. W. G. CORNE AND MISS BALDWIN

MARRIED WEDNESDAY EVENING
IN PRESENCE OF ABOUT 200 GUESTS.

Ceremony at Dr. Baldwin's East Main Street Home—Several Other June Weddings.

Dr. William Grant Corne, one of the prominent Newark dentists, became the husband of Miss Mary Gertrude Baldwin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Baldwin on Wednesday evening, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents, 97 East Main street at eight o'clock by Rev. Thomas A. Cosgrove, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, in the presence of about 200 guests.

The ceremony was the very impressive and solemn ring service of the Presbyterian church.

The bride was most beautifully gowned in white satin, a deep bertha of rose point lace being one of the noticeable features of the handsome dress. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The skirt was deeply tucked as well as the waist, and short sleeves and a high neck completed a most artistic gown.

The house was decorated in a most profuse manner with smilax and asparagus. The smilax was festooned from the chandeliers in the spacious parlors, and about the altar were grouped potted palms. The entire scheme was green and white, and was carried out in a very effective manner by Florist A. J. Baldwin, a relative of the bride.

Promptly on the stroke of 3 o'clock the orchestra began the wedding march. Messrs. Joseph Pugh of Newark, and James Cooper of McComb, O., took their places at the foot of the front stairway and held ropes of smilax which were taken by Mr. Jesse Elliott and Miss Lillian Latimer and carried through the parlor to form an aisle for the bridal party, which was preceded by Dr. Corne, accompanied by his best man, Dr. Charles Roberts, of Key West, Fla. In order then came the maid of honor, Miss Stella Rosenthal, of Mt. Vernon, and the bride on her father's arm. Rev. Cosgrove awaited them at the altar. The fateful words were soon spoken, which joined the betrothed in the sacred relation of man and wife.

The bride's table was decorated with white carnations and here sat Dr. and Mrs. Corne, Dr. Charles Roberts, Miss Stella Rosenthal, James Cooper, Carl Baldwin, Jesse Elliott, Joseph Pugh, Miss Edith Curtis, Miss Josephine Veach, Miss Ida Moore, and Miss Lillian Latimer.

A sumptuous wedding supper was served after congratulations had been showered upon the bride and groom by the guests.

After escaping from their friends and very successfully too, Dr. and Mrs. Corne left Newark for a thousand mile trip up the St. Lawrence river, and will return in about two weeks from Montreal by way of Boston and Washington. They will immediately go to housekeeping on Oak street.

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM

Several Newark People Injured Wednesday Afternoon and Considerable Damage Was Done in Various Sections of the City—Many 'Phones Put Out.

The most severe electrical storm of the season visited Newark Wednesday afternoon and considering the great play of lightning it seems almost miraculous that some fatalities did not result. Commencing at shortly after 1 o'clock a frightful down-pour of rain began, accompanied by one stroke of lightning after another in rapid succession almost resembling the action of a cloudburst. Pedestrians fled to places of shelter while persons in carriages and autos were forced to leave their conveyances in the drenching rain.

Several persons are known to have been more or less injured as a result of the severe storm. The lightning struck in many places over the city. Two persons, Mrs. Daniel Crowley, of Beach street and L. W. Sturdevant, being injured in the West Newark street car accident, a result of the heavy downpour of water.

Home, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Bope of 216 North Gay street, was shocked by a brilliant display which struck the earth near the Bope home.

The South Third street school building was damaged to the extent of probably $100. A terrific bolt landed squarely against the west side of the bell tower, tearing the entire side away in splinters. Slates and bricks flew through the air as the roof was ploughed up by lightning. Fortunately no blaze was started. Mr. J. R. Ashbrook, the South Third street grocer, was standing in the door of his place of business opposite the school building when it was struck. He was stunned and for some time noticed the effect of the shock.

In North Newark, just beyond the corporation line, a horse which was standing under the shelter of a rud-shed, was knocked to the ground by the force of a forked tongue of electricity which struck a nearby tree splitting it almost completely in two. The animal lay on the ground for a short time but finally arose and looked about it, apparently none the worse for the shock.

With a terrific crash and blinding play of light, a huge ball of light struck one of the steel girders of the new skyscraper, which was lying near the curbing on the North Side, and bounded along its entire length, doing no damage however. In East Newark especially, and in fact all over the city, trees were struck and splintered. Late in the afternoon the streams began to rise, showing the effect of the storm before it reached this place, although the water did not become dangerously high.

A city car from West Newark while passing the West Side, had a fuse blown out. The occupants of the car were badly frightened, at first thinking that the car had been struck, but before many of them had a chance to get away the trouble was explained. However, the scene was rather amusing when with screams and swift running two or three passengers darted for the shelter of the West Side awnings.

Possibly one of the amusing incidents occurred in East Newark where a man named Dale, residing on Cedar street, was engaged in cleaning a rifle. Mr. Dale was just putting the gun together after having cleaned in when lightning struck the ground a short distance in the rear of his residence with a deafening explosion. Mr. Dale clasped one hand to his head and dropping the weapon exclaimed "What was that?" Of course at once realizing the situation he joined in a laugh with a neighbor who happened to be near and made the best of the joke although badly frightened.

Telephones all over the city were out of commission for some time and the afternoon and the greater part of Thursday repairing damaged lines.

Considering the severity of the storm it is indeed fortunate that no more damage was done. It is stated that the storm of Thursday was one of the worst which has visited this city for several seasons.

car who sustained any injuries to amount to anything.

Mr. Sturdevant had two ribs broken. In the case of Mrs. Crowley, however, her escape from death is considered really miraculous. At the time of the accident she had her two children with her and was holding them in her arms. When the car stopped after she had been thrown out, she crawled from underneath the car with her two little boys still clasped in her arms, and then collapsed from the nervous shock. A cab was called and she was taken to her home where a physician made an examination of her injuries and found that aside from some severe bruises, she had escaped uninjured. Mrs. Crowley shortly afterwards recovered from the shock and went into a state of extreme nervousness. She had evidently been rolled under the car as the mud was ground through all her clothes and into the flesh.

Miss Nellie Baker, daughter of Mrs. J. P. Baker of Seventh street, while at the Idlewild casino was taken suddenly ill. A shock of lightning was the cause. She was taken to her home a few minutes afterward and is resting easily at this writing.
